MEET CLAIRE

Claire is a Paterno Fellow majoring in Anthropological Science and Geography.

She previously interned with the University of Pennsylvania Museum of Archaeology and Anthropology, working with faculty to organize archaeozoology collections and edit archaeobotanical photographs. She received a scholarship from the Pennsylvania Space Grant Undergraduate Research Program.

As a research assistant in the Functional and Evolutionary Morphology Research Lab at Penn State, Claire helps process micro CT scan data and identify skeletal elements from digitized human and animal remains. Claire is also an assistant principal violist in the Campus Orchestra, as well as an active member of the Student Farm, Anthropology, and Music Service clubs.
